

POSTERIOR COMPOSITES:

A Rapid, Simplified Placement Technique:

A Lecture, Demonstration and Participation course

Dr. Ronald Jackson

LIMITED ENROLMENT

Course Description:

Posterior composite resin restorations have become mainstream. These restorations seal teeth, reinforce remaining tooth structure, allow conservative preparations and satisfy patient desires for natural appearance. However, dentists complain that Class II composite restorations are tedious, time consuming, somewhat complicated, and aren't always predictable. In addition, clinicians can sometimes be confused by the vast choice of adhesives in the marketplace all claiming to be the best and report frustration whenever a Class II contact is too light or missed altogether.

In this presentation, Dr. Jackson will show a greatly simplified and efficient procedure for placing posterior composite restorations based on new materials and technology. The predictable, standardized protocol will clearly show a significant reduction in both time and effort when placing these restorations. Additional topics covered include:

- Matricing – achieving proper contacts every time
- Understanding Adhesives and Adhesion – an update
- Total adaptation, total fill - in seconds

Participation:

Following the lecture, participants will have the opportunity to place a Class II composite restoration using SoniFill™ (Kerr). Dentists will discover that this system delivers a fast, easy and efficient single fill aesthetic restoration with high density and adaptation.

Learning Objectives:

- 1) To examine current matricing techniques that ensure predictable quality contacts
- 2) To understand Adhesion – making the right choice and doing it right
- 3) To achieve time savings without compromise, using bulk fill composite technology
